Knickerbocker in "War Log" Tells of General's Blasts Against "Reds"

(Note: Following is the fourth of the war logs sent from the Spanish battlefront by H. R. Knickerbocker, famous roving correspondent of International News Service.)

By H. R. Knickerbocker
I. N. S. Staff Correspondent
(Copyright 1936 by I. N. S.)

SEVILLE, Sept. 17—(INS)—Captain Bolin, the press officer of the White army in the south, took me today to see General Queipo de Llano, commander in the south of the operations in Andalusia, that is to say, against Malaga principally for the moment at which this is written.

This redoubtable figure is one of the most colorful talkers on the White side, and every evening for half an hour and sometimes more, he pours out of the Seville radio a withering blast against the Reds.

But he is just as colorful a fighter. If Madrid had possessed a White general with the guts and quickfire decision of de Llano, the capital would have fallen on the day after Franco raised the banner of revolt in Morocco.

Capt. Bolin and I walked into the general's headquarters, saluted by twenty or thirty guards at the doors. Capt. Bolin's uniform of a captain of the Foreign Legion is better than any pass. The Foreign Legion insignia is accepted in White Spain as a brevet of the elite military, a grade better than anything else in the army.

Community Training School Will Open Here Oct. 12th

The community training school, sponsored by the churches of Bristol, with the co-operation of many of the churches of the surrounding community, will begin on Monday evening, October 12th. This will be the second year for such a school in Bristol.

Last Fall the school was a great success with an enrollment of 160. However, its value to the teachers and others who attended is said to be only a foretaste of many better things to come.

The courses that will be offered this year were selected on the basis of a questionaire that the pupils made out last term. Only teachers who have presented their teaching plans and have been certified by their Church Board of Christian Education, or by the International Council of Religious Education are pemitted to teach.

The registration fee is small. In many cases, the Sunday School takes care of this. The age limit is from 16 to 116. The school will continue for six consecutive Monday nights, beginning at eight p. m. Check your dates now. Select the course that interests you and that will help you most. A list of the teachers and their qualifications will be published soon. The five courses offered are as follows, each person to select one course: The Christian Message For Our Present Day World; Understanding Our Pupils; Christian Worship; Guiding the Religious Growth of Primary Children; and The New Testament, Its Contents and Values.

Assign Bucks County Dollar Certificate Quota

A quota of 2825 "Dollar Certificates" to be sold in Bucks County has been assigned by the Finance Committee of the Republican National Committee and the Republican State Committee of Pennsylvania in a message received today by Miss E. D. Worthington, of Hartsville, director of the "Dollar Certificate" campaign in this County.

With a record-breaking total of more than 44,000 contributors to the State Republican fund, the leaders of the party are giving all the credit to the volunteer women who are making house-to-house calls on all the voters in the State.

In the 1932 Hoover-Roosevelt campaign, the total number of Republican contributors was 940.

The message from State headquarters instructed Miss Worthington to remind all her workers to emphasize the educational purpose of the house-to-house visits rather than to concentrate on sales of "Dollar Certificates."

"It is the vote we want rather than the dollar," the instructions stated. "Remind your workers again not to urge poor people to contribute. With seven weeks remaining more than 44,000 loyal Republicans have contributed willingly. Many thousands more desire to do their share.

"The certificate drive is making political history in America."

Governor Landon Lays Down the American Credo

(New York American, July 15, 1936)

Governor Landon in his aggressively challenging Portland speech brought home with luminous clarity the great issue that is to be decided in this campaign.

It is COMPETITIVE DEMOCRACY versus AUTOCRATIC REGIMENTATION.

As to the question, "Where does Governor Landon stand?" the answer in the Portland speech is ringingly clear.

He stands for:

Restoring the autonomy of business enterprises.

Rigid enforcement of all anti-trust and anti-monopoly laws.

The burial FOR GOOD of all such anti-American nostrums as the NRA, the AAA and the Guffey Coal-Control Act.

Guarding the country against Executive usurpation.

The complete extirpation from our soil of the "planned economy" panaceas that have wrecked Europe.

The restoration of SELF-RELIANCE both to the industrialist and the workingman in place of the growing dependence of both on the Government.

The farmer's RIGHT to produce as much as he pleases on his own land without consulting a Wallace or a Tugwell.

The restoration of those traditions of ECONOMIC AND POLITICAL INDIVIDUALISM that have made us the envy of the world in our high living level.

* * *

Governor Landon points out that President Roosevelt has nowhere confessed his errors of judgment and of New Deal policies—that the NRA "LIVES ON IN THE EFFORTS OF THIS ADMINISTRATION TO GET AROUND THE DECISION OF THE SUPREME COURT."

The autocratic tendencies of the present Administration, Governor Landon points out, mean, ultimately, an America that will be either Fascist or Communist — AND THAT MEANS WAR.

Governor Landon says: "THERE IS NO HALF-WAY HOUSE BETWEEN THESE TWO SYSTEMS"—that is, between the regimented-European system of Roosevelt New Dealism and the American system of COMPETITIVE DEMOCRACY.

And he concludes this memorable speech with this declaration—the declaration of a brave, sincere American:

"IF YOU DO NOT BELIEVE THIS, YOU HAD BETTER NOT VOTE FOR ME. FOR I AM PLEDGED BY THE REPUBLICAN PARTY PLATFORM TO SAVE OUR SYSTEM OF FREE ENTERPRISE.

"LET ME RESTATE THE ISSUES:

"DO WE WANT THE GOVERNMENT PRYING INTO EVERY LITTLE DETAIL OF OUR BUSINESS LIVES?

"DO WE WANT THE GOVERNMENT FORBIDDING US TO PLANT WHAT WE WANT IN OUR OWN FIELDS?

"OR:

"DO WE WANT TO BE FREE TO PLAN FOR OUR FUTURE?

"DO WE WANT FREE GOVERNMENT IN AMERICA?"

It can hardly be doubted what the answer of the American people will be next November.

DRUNKEN DRIVER PAYS FINE; GETS 30 DAYS

MAN AND WIFE MAKE UP

DOYLESTOWN, Sept. 17 — Pleading guilty to drunken driving, Louis Zigmont, 929 Spring Garden street, who operates a restaurant in Philadelphia, was sentenced by President Judge Hiram H. Keller to pay a fine of $200, the costs of prosecution, and serve 30 days in the County Prison.

State Highway Patrolman A. P. Diem, of the Oxford Valley sub-station, who arrested the defendant May 3, at 11.15 at night, near Andalusia, after he collided with a car which was parked off the highway, testified Zigmont did not stop immediately after the collision.

Zigmont admitted on the stand that he drank several beers and also some wine, but denied there was anyone in the car which he struck and stated a blow-out caused him to strike the standing vehicle. "I stopped as quickly as I could. It was raining and there was not much damage done to my car. Before I could get out and run back to see how much the other car was damaged they stood outside of my automobile."

"You are really guilty of two offenses even though you were not charged with failure to stop after an accident. When a person runs into another car and keeps on going, such behavior cannot be overlooked," said Judge Keller.

Character witnesses included C. J. Hall and the Messrs. McManus, Hayes and Ponjelli, all of whom testified Zigmont bore an excellent reputation.

"Hunger Marchers" Cost Taxpayers $11,000

Harrisburg, Sept. 17—The 3,000 so-called "hunger marchers" who invaded the State Capitol during the recent extraordinary legislative session, today left a bill of almost $11,000 for Pennsylvania taxpayers, Auditor General Frank E. Baldwin had revealed today. This figure, he pointed out, does not include the cost of repairs to the Senate gallery, but represents the total cost of feeding and housing the group during its several weeks' "siege" in Harrisburg.

Bandits Get $1,000 Loot

Conshohocken, Sept. 17—Defying a fusillade of police bullets, masked bandits today made a sensational escape with loot valued at $1,000 after being cornered by three Conshohocken policemen.

One or more of the desperadoes is believed to have been wounded in the exchange of gunfire, as their get-away car, found abandoned at Miquon, four miles south of here, contained nine bullet holes, one of which smashed the windshield.

After receiving a call that a tap room and wholesale tobacco establishment was being robbed, the trio of patrolmen rushed to the place. With drawn pistols they drew up to the gangsters' car and cornered two of the bandits.

Apparently unaware of the fact that two other gunmen were still in the establishment, the police were ordering the two prisoners from the car when the other two gunmen opened fire. As the patrolmen ducked for shelter, the gunmen raced into their high-powered car and escaped.

After they abandoned their car at nearby Miquon, the gangsters attempted to force the milk truck of John Pollock, Sr., 50, of Conshohocken, to the side of the road. Instead of obeying the gunmen, Pollock put on speed as a rain of bullets was released by the gunmen.

GRAND JURY FREES BRISTOL WOMAN IN SHOOTING CASE

Mrs. Louise Bell Set Free On Both Murder and Involuntary Manslaughter Charges

CRIES IN APPRECIATION

Woman Returns to Bristol and Is Staying With Friends

A Bristol woman is resting today at the home of friends and is endeavoring to forget the nightmare of having been confined in the Bucks County jail at Doylestown, since July 4th, where she was taken, after a shooting affair at the home of Jesse Jones, Beaver Dam Road, Bristol Township. The woman, Mrs. Louise Bell (nee Van-Sciver), was charged with the fatal shooting of Jones but the Grand Jury yesterday at noon returned "not a true bill" and Mrs. Bell was released.

Jones was shot through the abdomen early on the morning of July 4th at his Bristol Township bungalow. He died shortly after being admitted to the Hariman Hospital but before dying Jones told hospital and police authorities that he, himself, inflicted the wound.

Mrs. Bell was taken into custody and in her version of the affair said that she and Jones had visited a nearby taproom, the night before, and upon returning home Jones became very quarrelsome. According to Mrs. Bell, Jones urged her to shoot him and then threatened her, and finally the gun was discharged while the two were engaged in a scuffle.

At a subsequent hearing Mrs. Bell pleaded not guilty to the charge of murder and then at a coroner's inquest she was held for the grand jury.

The grand jury, yesterday, returned "not a true bill" on both counts. She had been charged with murder and also involuntary manslaughter.

Mrs. Bell, sitting in prisoners' row, wore a very neat-looking blue frock, an attractive hat, with her hair neatly waved. She broke down at once when she learned she was a free woman.

Judge Keller before discharging her, said: "Your tears show your gratitude. However, the court cannot refrain from telling you that you had a lucky experience. This is not the first time you have been before the court because of your conduct on drinking parties. If you really appreciate this experience, see to it that you never become involved in any more drinking parties. A short time ago you served as a witness for the man whom you were charged with shooting."

AMENDMENT VS. USURPATION

"The spirit of encroachment tends to consolidate the powers of all the departments in one, and thus to create, whatever the form of government, a real despotism.

"If in the opinion of the people the distribution or modification of the constitutional powers be in any particular wrong, let it be corrected by an amendment in the way which the Constitution designated. But let there be no change by usurpation; for though this in one instance may be the instrument of good, it is the customary weapon by which free governments are destroyed."—From George Washington's "Farewell Address," September 17, 1796.

It was exactly 149 years ago that the members of the Constitutional Convention, who had been meeting in Philadelphia since May 25, rose. On that September 17, 1787, they adopted the Constitution which they had drafted in somewhat less than four months, and adjourned. A long hard struggle followed, for the original states, which had nearly lost the Revolutionary War through their controversies and through the weakness of the Confederation, were by no means united in purpose or policy. That ratification ensued and that the new government was born (on March 4, 1789) were due in no small part to the able pleas put forward by James Madison and Alexander Hamilton.

The belittling of the men who wrote the Federal Constitution, a modern fashion born of ignorance, has passed. That document continues to occupy its rightful place as a great work of the human mind, undoubtedly the greatest in its field in all history. But it helps one's perspective, we think, to note how accurately and with what skilled imagination these two statesmen of the horse and buggy era foresaw, named, described and warned against the very threat which now confronts us more than a century and a half later.

For the question about which the campaign of 1936 centers is exactly that which Washington defined with such prescience in his Farewell Address of September 17, 1796. There are now twenty-one amendments to the Constitution. That means that it has been changed at the rate of one amendment every seven years. It is nonsense in sight of this record to pretend that it has been treated as sacrosanct or unchangeable. It can obviously be amended today by the New Dealers if they can demonstrate legitimate need of change and define their views in specific terms.

The issue lies far deeper than any such legitimate proposal. It is exactly that "encroachment" of which Washington wrote. The "weapon" is that "customary" one by which "free governments are destroyed." The danger is that, under a democratic form of government there will be a "real despotism."

POCKETBOOK FACTS ABOUT YOUR TAXES

Burden Narrows People's Security

Due to the heavy burden of taxation the margin of saving in the average American family has been reduced from about 25 cents to 6 cents in every dollar of income. The effect is to narrow the margin of security to about one-fourth of what it formerly was.

The Federal, State and local governments may confiscate legally the earnings of citizens. To the extent that they do so the possible margin of saving is reduced.

The Bureau of Home Economics of the Department of Agriculture computes the present margin of saving for the average American family having an income of approximately $1,500 a year at 5.9 cents on the dollar of income.

TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

Lose Fat The Easy Way—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

If your feet and ankles feel tired and ache all over—because you are carrying too much fat—do something about it. Try the treatment that has helped millions to reduce excess weight.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and, often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right.

All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks — and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out in this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets are based on the same method used by doctors. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used successfully to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.

"THE BIG FOUR" by Agatha Christie

SYNOPSIS

On the eve of his departure from London for South America to conduct an investigation for Abe Ryland, wealthy soap king, Hercule Poirot, noted detective, confides in his friend, Hastings, that if it wasn't for the money offered, he would remain in London to complete his investigation of "The Big Four." Poirot believes this organization to be a gang of international criminals. Hastings goes on with the story:

CHAPTER II

"Don't go," I urged. "Cancel your passage and come out on the same boat with me."

Poirot drew himself up and glanced at me reproachfully.

"Ah, it is that you do not understand! I have passed my word, you comprehend—the word of Hercule Poirot. Nothing but a matter of life or death could detain me now."

"And that's not likely to occur," I murmured rudfully. "Unless at the eleventh hour 'the door opens and the unexpected guest comes in.'"

I quoted the old saw with a slight laugh, and then, in the pause that succeeded it, we both started as a sound came from the inner room.

"What's that?" I cried.

"Ma foi!" retorted Poirot. "It sounds very like your 'unexpected guest' in my bedroom."

"But how can any one be in there? There's no door except into this room."

"Your memory is excellent, Hastings. Now for the deductions."

"The window! But it's a burglar, then? He must have had a stiff climb of it—I should say it was almost impossible."

I had risen to my feet and was striding in the direction of the door when the sound of a fumbling at the handle from the other side arrested me.

The door swung slowly open. Framed in the doorway stood a man. He was coated from head to foot with dust and mud; his face was thin and emaciated. He stared at us for a moment, and then swayed and fell. Poirot hurried to his side, then he looked up and spoke to me.

"Brandy—quickly."

I dashed some brandy into a glass and brought it. Poirot managed to administer a little, and together we raised him and carried him to the couch. In a few minutes he opened his eyes and looked round him with an almost vacant stare.

"What is it you want, monsieur?" said Poirot.

"M. Hercule Poirot, 14 Farraway Street."

"Yes, yes; I am he."

The man did not seem to understand, and merely repeated in exactly the same tone:—

"M. Hercule Poirot, 14 Farraway Street."

Poirot tried him with several questions. Sometimes the man did not answer at all; sometimes he repeated the same phrase. Poirot made a sign to me to ring up on the telephone.

"Get Dr. Ridgeway to come round."

The doctor was in luckily; and as his house was only just round the corner, few minutes elapsed before he came bustling in.

"What's all this, eh?"

Poirot gave a brief explanation, and the doctor started examining our strange visitor, who seemed quite unconscious of his presence or ours.

"H'm!" said Dr. Ridgeway, when he had finished. "Curious case."

"Brain fever?" I suggested.

The doctor immediately snorted with contempt.

"Brain fever! Brain fever! No such thing as brain fever. An invention of novelists. No; the man's had a shock of some kind. He's come here under the force of a persistent idea—to find M. Hercule Poirot, 14 Farraway Street—and he repeats those words mechanically without in the least knowing what they mean."

"Aphasia?" I said eagerly.

This suggestion did not cause the doctor to snort quite as violently as my last one had done. He made no answer, but handed the man a sheet of paper and a pencil.

The door swung slowly open. Framed in the doorway stood a man coated with dust and mud; his face was thin and emaciated.

"Let's see what he'll do with that," he remarked.

The man did nothing with it for some moments, then he suddenly began to write feverishly. With equal suddenness he stopped and let both paper and pencil fall to the ground. The doctor picked it up, and shook his head.

"Nothing here. Only the figure 4 scrawled a dozen times, each one bigger than the last. Wants to write 14 Farraway Street, I expect. It's an interesting case—very interesting. Can you possibly keep him here until this afternoon? I'm due at the hospital now, but I'll come back this afternoon and make all arrangements about him. It's too interesting a case to be lost sight of."

I explained Poirot's departure and the fact that I proposed to accompany him to Southampton.

"That's all right. Leave the man here. He won't get into mischief. He's suffering from complete exhaustion. Will probably sleep for eight hours on end. I'll have a word with that excellent Mrs. Funnyface of yours, and tell her to keep an eye on him."

"The time, it marches with a rapidity unbelievable. Come now, Hastings, you cannot say that I have left you with nothing to do. A most sensational problem. The man from the unknown. Who is he? What is he? Ah, sapristi, but I would give two years of my life to have this boat go to-morrow instead of to-day. There is something here very curious—very interesting. But one must have time—time. It may be days—or even months—before he will be able to tell us what he came to tell."

"I'll do my best, Poirot," I assured him. "I'll try to be an efficient substitute."

"Ye-es."

His rejoinder struck me as being a shade doubtful. I picked up the sheet of paper.

"If I were writing a story," I said lightly, "I should weave this in with your latest idiosyncrasy and call it The Mystery of the Big Four." I tapped the pencilled figures as I spoke.

And then I started, for our invalid, roused suddenly from his stupor, sat up in his chair and said clearly and distinctly:

"Li Chang Yen."

MANY NEVER SUSPECT CAUSE OF BACKACHES

This Old Treatment Often Brings Happy Relief

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. Most people pass about 3 pints a day or about 3 pounds of waste.

Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning shows there may be something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

An excess of acids or poisons in your blood, when due to functional kidney disorders, may be the cause of nagging backache, rheumatic pains, lumbago, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SHORTCAKES FOR ALL OCCASIONS

All Kinds of Fruits and Meats Are Suitable For Use

Dear Friends in Bristol:

This week I am writing especially to the women who serve shortcake only during the strawberry season. It is a shame to deprive the family of the goodness to be found in the combination of rich biscuit pastry and fruits or creamed meats. With the coming of the cool days you will be looking for a dish that is satisfying and tempting so I am going to give you suggestions and recipes that will fill just that need.

First, there is a recipe that came to me from the friend of a friend so I cannot tell you its origin but I can attest to its deliciousness. It is a blueberry or a huckleberry shortcake. Make the type of shortcake you prefer and just before serving, spread it generously with hot berries and top with a hard sauce to which nutmeg has been added.

Another favorite shortcake of mine is called a Plantation Shortcake. This is made of very rich corn bread. Make it thin so there will be plenty of crust. I often bake the bread in cake pans, making three layers. Put together with creamed chicken, veal or pork and it is a meal in itself with a green salad and a fruit dessert.

Then there is the ginger banana shortcake that has claim to distinction. Make your favorite gingerbread. Put the layers together with sliced bananas and top with whipped cream. This is a shortcake that can be served any day of the year.

Individual shortcakes are always popular. These may be made of a rich biscuit dough or from a cup cake mixture. Most fruits are suitable but they should be heated through in a light syrup before serving. Cream sauces, hard butter sauce, or fruit juices are served with them.

During the fall season there is much entertaining at home. I am going to give you some foundation recipes that can be used for buffet suppers, church socials and for the family dinner. The reason for the popularity of shortcakes at buffet suppers is that all materials may be prepared in advance, yet will be tasty when eaten. The pastry is baked and kept hot in a covered casserole or dish; the meat or fruit can be kept hot in a similar dish and the whole put together when wanted.

Foundation Shortcake Recipe

Two cups sifted flour, four teaspoons baking powder, six tablespoons shortening, one egg, one-half teaspoon salt, three tablespoons sugar (for a fruit shortcake, omit when using with meats), three-fourths to one cup milk or water.

Sift the dry ingredients, cut in the shortening. Mix the egg with the milk and add to the shortening mixture. Mix quickly with a fork and pat out to the desired shape or size. Prick with a fork. Bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees F. for twelve to fifteen minutes.

Ginger Shortcake

One cup brown sugar, one-half cup shortening, one-half cup rich milk, two and one-half cups flour, one-half teaspoon soda, one tablespoon ginger, one-half teaspoon salt, one-half cup milk.

Cream the shortening and sugar well. Add the eggs well-beaten and the rich milk with the molasses. Sift the dry ingredients together and add alternately with the milk to the shortening mixture. Pour into two nine-inch pans and bake in a moderate oven of 350 degrees F. for twenty-five to thirty minutes. When cold, put together with sliced bananas that have been dipped in lemon juice to keep them from discoloring, then sprinkled with powdered sugar. Frost over with whipped cream and decorate with more bananas.

Plantation Shortcake

Two eggs, two and one-half cups sifted meal, two cups buttermilk, three tablespoons shortening, two teaspoons salt, one teaspoon soda, three teaspoons baking powder.

Put the shortening into a bowl and cream well. Add the eggs and beat well again. Add the milk and salt. Sift the baking powder and soda with the meal and add to the liquid to make a medium batter. Beat until smooth. Pour into two cake pans and bake in a hot oven of 450 degrees F. for fifteen to twenty minutes. Keep hot and when ready to serve, put together with creamed chicken, veal or pork.

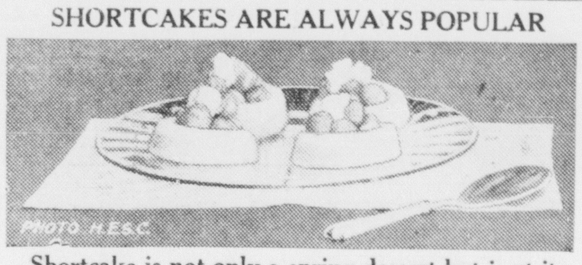
Foundation Shortcake
(Cake Batter)

One-third cup shortening, one cup sugar, two eggs, one-half cup milk, one and three-fourths cup flour, two and one-half teaspoons baking powder, one-half teaspoon salt.

Blend well the shortening and sugar. Separate the egg and beat the yolks into the shortening mixture with the salt. Sift together the dry ingredients and add alternately to the shortening mixture with the milk. Fold in the stiffly beaten egg whites. Bake in a moderate oven of 375 degrees F. for twenty to twenty-five minutes. Individual shortcakes may be made with the batter. Use fruit and sauces as desired.

Elsie Bijo Crabtree

SHORTCAKES ARE ALWAYS POPULAR



Shortcake is not only a spring dessert but is at its best in the fall with canned fruits. A plain, crusty biscuit makes a meat short cake that is good as well as economical. The centers of the shortcakes are removed to make a nest.

Mint Jelly for Lamb

Quick mint jelly may be made with the use of gelatine. Soften one tablespoon of gelatine in one-fourth cup cold water. Boil together one cup granulated sugar and one cup mild vinegar for five minutes. Add to the gelatine with one-fourth each teaspoon salt and paprika. Cut fine one cup mint leaves and add to the gelatine mixture. Add green coloring to make a pleasing shade. Pour into molds after the gelatine has begun to thicken.

To Keep Parsley

Wash parsley and shake free of water. Drop into a fruit jar, close top and place in refrigerator. Parsley will keep crisp and fresh for days in this manner.

White Spots on Furniture

Heat will cause white spots on polished furniture. This may be removed by rubbing hard with camphorated oil. Rub until spot disappears.

Apples in Salad

When using apples for salad, do not peel. The color makes the salad more attractive. Apples darken when cut and for this reason should be dipped into lemon or pineaple juice or covered with mayonnaise.

Local Stores Co-operate In Gigantic Soap Sale

Lever Brothers Company's local stores are co-operating this week in promoting a gigantic soap sale, featuring special displays and special prices on Lux flakes, Lifebuoy soap, Rinso, Lux toilet soap, and Spry.

Spry is the new, purer, smoother all-vegetable shortening which has secured over three million users in the last three months.

Edward Rush, of the advertising departemnt of Lever Brothers Company, has been in Bristol all week handling the installation of the striking effective displays in the stores. The dealers report that they are all heavily stocked to take care of the unusual volume expected because of the popularity and special prices on these products.

On page four you will find a full-page advertisement listing the names of the dealers sponsoring the sale, also the prices for this week.

Zigmont operates a restaurant which employs six hands in addition to his wife and daughter, his counsel pointed out, saying that to undergo imprisonment would work a definite hardship on the defendant.

W. U. Hohweiler, of Morrisville, who admitted failure to stop at a traffic sign at the intersection of the Bristol Pike and Radcliffe street in August, when he was arrested by Constable of Bristol Township Joseph Seaders, was directed by Judge Calvin S. Boyer to pay a fine of $5, the costs of prosecution and in default of payment of the fine and costs undergo an imprisonment of three days in the county prison.

The defendant's defense was that he did not see the sign because it was not illuminated. Constable Seaders and Corporal R. D. Evans, of the State Highway Patrol, both testified the sign was visible at all times.

Hohweiler waived a hearing before a justice of the peace and had the matter returned to court, thus piling up additional costs which he was directed to pay.

When they informed President Judge Keller they had ironed out their own demestic difficulties, a charge of non-support against Lester Overpeck, of Wycombe, was withdrawn by Mrs. Overpeck and the Court directed the costs be placed on the county.

Judge Keller, after a sort of heart-to-heart talk with the young people, told them he would make them a donation toward getting started right this time by having the costs of prosecution placed on the county.

Mrs. Overpeck told Judge Keller she is employed in the Hatboro Hosiery Mill and that they have been living together for the past three weeks and all was well again. The couple have one child.

Mr. Overpeck arrested his wife when she broke all the windows in his automobile. At the present time he is unemployed.

De Llano Took the City of Seville by Sheer Audacity

General de Llano's office door was open, half concealed by a screen. A visitor came out the door, also a general. Capt. Bolin asked him if de Llano were in. At that moment, de Llano appeared at the door, to my surprise in civilian clothes—a beach suit crinkled pretty badly.

The "savior of Seville" was most hospitable. He had an air of dignity and gravity which completely belied the previous descriptions I had heard of him. He reminded me of the old-fashioned genuine southern colonel at home in America.

He is tall, thin, getting a bit Baldish, but has enough hair to part in the middle. His mouth is thin beneath a scanty moustache. He told me how he had taken Seville.

He took it by sheer audacity. This was a Red city with tens of thousands of Frente popular supporters ready to go out in the streets and shoot the military. But General deLlano beat them to it. With only 180 soldiers, he knew he could do nothing but die if he took the defensive. So he put his 180 soldiers in automobiles and sent them riding about the city, blazing away at the least sign of resistance.

The first people they met were a group of several hundred assault guards, the organization which the Madrid government had founded to counteract the famous Guardia Civil, who were always inclined to favor the right.

These Seville assault guards did not know for sure which side they were on, but General de Llano decided for them. The sight of the general's men, the general's own firm behavior, convinced the assault guards that this was the winning side, so they joined up instead of resisting. From then on, it was easy and the de Llano army by nightfall numbered thousands.

This is always the way it happens in political or civil conflict. Eighty per cent of the people are undecided or indifferent. About ten percent on the Left and ten on the Right know what they want, and are determined to get it. The side which puts up the greatest show of strength can count on gaining the support of the vast majority who are looking for the bandwagon.

General deLlano made Seville believe he was the bandwagon. Nobody in Madrid had the same guts. Instead of going out on the streets and shooting, the officers of the Madrid garrison stayed in their barracks and waited for Franco's columns from Morocco.

But the Navy rebelled, killed all their officers, and long before Franco got his airplanes together and shot.

The memory of that shooting of the Madrid officers is one of the strongest motives in the hearts of the White army today. I have seen officers carrying pictures of the shootings, clipped from foreign publications. They were some remarkable pictures. One of the most vivid and terrible photographs I have ever seen was that of a Madrid officer coming out of barracks with his hands in the air and a wildly grinning red militiaman holding an automatic revolver to the officer's head. Another shows the bodies of several score officers in the court of the Montana barracks, with weeping women looking for their dead.

BRISTOL TO HAVE PROFESSIONAL FOOTBALL

Bristol will get back into big time football this Fall, after a lapse of 10 years, when the Bristol Tornadoes, a professional team composed of many gridiron greats, opens the 1936 season, Sunday, September 27, against the Tacony Aces of Philadelphia.

The announcement of the organization of this new club was made yesterday by Joe Myers, a former manager of several professional teams in the Quaker City, who will handle the business affairs of the local team, and George Dougherty, a well-known local grid star, who will coach the squad.

Landreth's field, with a seating capacity of 2000, will be the home of the Tornadoes, where Sunday and night games will be played. The team will be equipped with the newest in football uniforms, including orange jerseys and white head-gear.

Among the players signed by Myers who have started practice are: Charlie Rogers, former captain and All-American back of the University of Pennsylvania; "Smoke" Martin, sensational end from Vanderbilt University; "Dolly" Katz, former Penn State star; Bob Hewitt, one of Pop Warner's great team of 1934 at Temple. Hewitt played against the Philadelphia Eagles for Reading two weeks ago.

"Hy" Miller, former Ursinus College back, and Bill Hannigan of Villanova, with Jordan, a center from the University of Pennsylvania, and Fromm and Ripka, formerly with the Yellowjackets, and Wilkins, of the last year's Tacony Aces. The Tornadoes also have Sox Seneca, who is widely known in these parts for his ability on the line with St. Ann's and Philadelphia Eagles. Sox will coach the line and play tackle.

Plans are being made to equip the Landreth Park with a modern lighting system to enable the Bristol organization to play night football. Outstanding professional teams will be engaged to play here, and Manager Myers expects to play Chris Cagle's new Mount Holly professionals at the fair grounds in the New Jersey town at an early date.

Coach George Dougherty, who needs no introduction to football enthusiasts in Bristol, will also play in the backfield. He expects to have the best local players from last year's Recreation Center signed and ready for the opening game.

A drive will be made to sell season tickets at a nominal sum to sports fans who like the right kind of football and a group of business men headed by Francis J. O'Boyle are interested in this movement.

BRISTOL BOXER WINS OVER FERRARA IN PHILA.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 17—Chester Castor, Bristol, caused an upset last night at the Seymour Club when he decisively defeated the defending champion in the 112-lb class, Johnny Ferrara, of the Seymour A. C., in a great sensational fight that had the capacity crowd in a frenzy throughout. Ferrara was the favorite to again cop the title in this tournament, but Castor surprised the home boy and his admirers by outfighting and out gaming the champ for the three rounds. Castor, who in his last five bouts scored three knock-outs and easily defeated Tony Aiello and Johnny Ferrara, is easily the class of his division, and a sure shot to cop the title, Friday night. This will be the first title to be held by any local lad, and the first one to bring to Bristol such a title.

However, Castor did not have an easy time with Ferrara. Sensing his defeat in the latter part of the bout, Ferrara threw caution to the winds, pounding Castor with rights and lefts; but Castor stood his ground and gave more than he received. The last round was a corker, Castor repeatedly making Ferrara break ground, using a left jab and a right uppercut that staggered Ferrara repeatedly. The bell was a welcome sign to the defeated warrior and the only most surprised one in the Arena when the officials unanimously rendered the verdict to Castor.

The Daggert Club, which had four wins on Monday night, and followed up with four more last night, has the best chance of winning the team prize and championships.

BENSALEM ELEVEN TO PLAY PRACTICE GAME HERE

By Louis Tomlinson

This afternoon at 3.45 Coach George Reimer will bring his Bensalem Owls to town to battle the Bristol Bunny on the local field in a practice game. This will mark the third year the two teams have battled in a pre-season exhibit fray in which the Coach and fans can get a preview of the teams before they swing into action for the coming season. Last year the teams came to a draw at Bensalem but Bristol outplayed the visitors at home.

Harvard Captain and Coach

Along with other colleges on the Eastern seaboard, Harvard started football candidates going through their paces. Here's Head Coach Dick Harlow and Captain Jim Gaffney looking over the promising squad.

Bensalem has eight letter men returning this year with six of them in the starting line-up tomorrow. However Coach Reimer expects to use his inexperienced reserves most of the time to develop them for the campaign just ahead. The Owls will lose the services of their Captain, Joe Wilks, their 165 lb. backfield ace, who is out with an injured knee.

Last year the Blue and Gray won 5, lost 2 and tied 2; but the boys will have to step to do that good this year, according to Mr. Reimer. They open with Newtown, and play Morrisville, Langhorne, Fallsington, Yardley and Newtown in Bucks County Conference games.

Although Bensalem has a weight advantage, Bristol will be given a slight edge in the tilt because of their speed. Coach Dougherty will depend on Danny DiMidio to do the punting. However, the punting of all backs is not up to standard and will have to be greatly improved as this department of the game is extremely important especially when in a dangerous territory in tough games. The locals will also have to watch Bensalem's running guards and especially their aerial attack which gave the Bunnies a lot to worry about last year. Wilbur White is the only doubtful starter in the Cardinal line-up due to a bad Charley Horse.

The idea of the pre-season view of the teams is to get a good idea of how each team will play against opposition not knowing the plays, also to see how they work.

The varsity teams will play for 20 minutes followed by a 20 minute game with the 2nd team. Each team will run the ball for four downs and kick on the fifth. After this both the varsity and second teams will scrimmage for a half hour under specific rules. This also gives the second team a chance to move up if they can show their worth —to make up for their disappointing showing in the Red and Gray game. No score will be kept.

Bristol will return this tussle by meeting the Owls in a return practice tilt on the latter's field on Wednesday, Sept. 29.

Probable line-ups for today's game:

Bristol		Bensalem
Carnvale (Capt.)	L. E.	Adams (Capt.)
Mignoni	L. T.	Borman
Profy	L. G.	Crossley
Fry	C.	Abbott
Hinman	R. G.	Faust
Gullato	R. T.	Marshall
White	R. E.	Junghanns
Barouth	Q. B.	Lange
Phillips	L. H. B.	Frederick
Orazi	R. H. B.	Scarborough
DiMidio	F. B.	Robinson

Students will be admitted free with a very slight admission fee charge to non-students.

Boy, 2, Drowns in Pool, Depite Rescue Efforts

two miles above Hatboro on York Road.

Little curly-locked Mahlon was in the company of Miss Lydia Rudolph, who had 15 other small boys and girls with her when it was noticed that Mahlon was absent. Miss Rudolph plunged into the pool and ran with the boy a quarter-mile to York road where she halted a passing truck.

Artificial respiration was applied as Carroll Rook, driver of the vehicle, raced to Hatboro. Not finding a physician immediately the group rushed on to Abington Hospital where artificial respiration methods failed.

Miss Rudolph was prostrated at the tragedy and had to receive medical treatment before she was released.

The small victim was one of eight children of Mrs. Ruth Mease, 3428 N. Lee street, Philadelphia, a widow. Mahlon and five others had been under the Hoone's care since their father's death in February. He was a pipefitter. Mrs. Mahlon supports the other two children by working as a housekeeper.

Wildcats Loom as Giant Killer of Big Ten!

While Minnesota and Ohio State appear to be the class of the Big Ten football conference, Northwestern university's potentially powerful eleven looms up as the giant killer of the midwest. It was Northwestern who toppled undefeated Notre Dame last year and threw a fright into Ohio State and Minnesota. Don Heap, flashy quarterback, is back in addition to 19 other letter men. Oze Simmons, sensational halfback, is the mainstay of the Iowa Hawkeyes who may prove another "dark horse" of the conference. Both Coaches Bernie Bierman at Minnesota and Francis Schmidt at Ohio State are pointing for their games with Northwestern while the Gophers have the additional hurdle of Iowa to take if they continue their victory march of last year.
